

Dear God,

I hope that it is not an imposition on my part to send you this letter. I feel that I have no right to call you "Father" though you were my biological father.

In the beginning, everything was so beautiful, so perfect. I really didn't appreciate it at the time. You gave me full freedom, true liberty in the Garden. I felt shameless. I was without turmoil and fear. You even realized that I felt lonely. So one day, you gave me a companion, the most beautiful and satisfying companion. But thinking back, I now realize that I paid too much attention to her. In fact, though you had warned me to not eat from the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil, I listened to her and did it. I preferred her, and all that she represented over You, my father. And ever since, I have brought upon us and upon all of my children the one thing that you warned me about: Death.

Honestly, I didn't know what Death meant at the time. Sadly, it looks like I needed to experience it personally to know what death was, to be cut off from You, from Your Love. At first, the problems were small. I felt that I could cope with them and overcome them on my own. But they kept on growing. Conflict and pain increased. Now look at us. Look at what we do to each other and to your Garden. God, please have mercy on me, on us, Your children. We don't deserve to be called Your children. We stubbornly resisted You. We rejected Your invitation to repent, to return to You, to ask Your forgiveness and to make amends. You constantly reminded us of our smallness, our vulnerability, our mortality. You sent us messengers to reason with us. You even sent the Son of Man to reason with us. But in our stubborn foolishness, we resisted You.

I have truly grown bitter with regret over my decision. I truly fear that all is lost and that there is no hope for the future. I fear that it is too late for me and for the Garden. I have hurt it and my children beyond rescue. Is there no way that I can return to You, my one and only Father?

With a heavy heart,

Adam
