

The disciple asked Jesus, "Master, what is the greatest commandment?" Jesus answered, "You will love the LORD your God with all of your heart, with all of your soul, and with all of your strength." The disciple asked him again, "How do you do this?" Jesus said, "Give me your pouch containing your coins." The disciple gave to Jesus his pouch. Jesus asked him, "Are these all of your coins?" The disciple answered, "Yes, Lord." Jesus asked, "I have all of your coins therefore?" The disciple answered, "Yes, Lord." Jesus said, "Very well. How many coins are there left for you?" The disciple answered, "None, Lord." Jesus continued, "And how many are there for you to give to your neighbour?" The disciple said, "Lord, none. But Lord, does not the Law say that I must love my neighbour as myself?" Jesus replied, "Yes." The disciple asked, "How can I do this if I have given you all of my coins?" Jesus replied, "Do I not have all of your coins?" The disciple said, "Yes, Lord." Jesus added, "Then in order for you to give a coin to your neighbour, you must obtain a coin from the one to whom you have surrendered all of your coins."
