

Adam, why was Jesus killed? Many people have thought that Jesus was killed as some kind of "holy sacrifice" which would magically absolve everyone of their obligation. Did you know that the rule regarding eating of the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil not only applies to you, Adam, but also applies to your children? Anyone eating from this Forbidden Tree, the Tree of Sovereignty, brings the same consequence upon that person. And, upon eating of this Tree of Culpability, one becomes accountable for one's actions and must answer for everything done in independence just as you experienced personally, Adam. Had you remained faithful to Me, your Father, and resisted the temptation of your woman, you would not have died. And upon heeding the voice of your woman instead of Mine and dying, you could have afterwards returned to Me at any time in repentance and I would have forgiven you. There is no need for a magical, "holy sacrifice" to bring about reconciliation between you and Me. In fact, there is no other way to restore to you life, Adam. Killing one of your children as a sacrifice will never atone for your crime. And killing one of your children who did what you were expected to do, to justly repent and became innocent before Me, will not atone for your crime, Adam. This applies to all of your children. When Cain killed your favourite son, Abel, did this bring peace between you and Cain? Were you pleased? So do you think that I should be pleased by the killing of my innocent and faithful son? Should I reward the killer with My blessing, My approval? Adam, what do you think is fair?

Jesus was killed because he chose to love Me instead of being a politician and seek the approval of his siblings.
