

Dear Eve,

Let's examine the "Great Feast" that our christian children are presently celebrating. According to the instructions of Saul/Paul, one of our children, God loved the world so much that He sent His son to this world in order to be killed as some kind of sacrifice. But a sacrifice to accomplish what? To whom? For whom? Did God my Father explain at any time that a man shall die for the sins of another? Or that a man shall live by the righteousness of another? And what do our children seek if not the very same thing I sought in the beginning? Did I not declare independence from God, my Father? And did I not eat of the Forbidden Tree, the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil? And did we not die when I did this? And did I need one of my children to die for me in order to purchase God's approval for myself? Eve, according to God's own instructions, I die for my own sin. And I live by my own righteousness. The serpent lied to you when it told you that you would not die upon eating of the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil. And that lie is perpetuated by religion and religious, man-made beliefs that contradict God's instruction. And by clinging to this lie of the serpent, we remain in God's chastisement instead of reconciling with Him. The Wicked Vinedressers must surrender the vineyard back to its original Owner and repent of having killed His Son. Until this takes place, the Vineyard Owner is at war with the Wicked Vinedressers. And He will not relent until He obtains what He seeks.

Sincerely,
Adam
